MEDICAL TRAUMA EXPERTISE AND TRAINING SOLUTIONS

The TraumaSim Group provide medical trauma expertise in simulation and training solutions for educators and trainers across a range of global industries.

The use of simulation in modern healthcare and emergency response training is a growth industry, and it has been proven that the more realistic the simulation, the better the outcomes - including significantly increasing student competency, resilience and retention, and improving the chance of patient survival while greatly reducing the effects of Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) on attending personnel.

TraumaSim provides hyper-realistic moulage and services to assist in the training of medics, military and emergency services personnel, first responders and healthcare professionals across the globe.

Today, this style of training is also being offered to civilians as a necessary response to the world we live in. TraumaSim's services are vital to this.

All our products are designed and manufactured in Perth, Western Australia, offering a bespoke, customised service built on the backbone of medical science, healthcare, nursing and first aid training.

"STRENGTHENING THE CAPABILITY OF MEDICS AND EMERGENCY RESPONSE TEAMS AROUND THE WORLD SINCE 2008."
